BEST MONDAY NIGHT MOVIES

"The Meddlers," (1951) Alec Guinness and Irene Dunne (8 p.m. Channel 2-BL) — Good costume drama set in London of Queen Victoria. Guinness chips in his usual fine performance.

"The Forbiddin' Street," (1949) Dana Andrews and Maureen O'Hara (10:30 p.m. Channel 2-BL) — Melodrama set in London with some opera tendencies. Nice performance by Dana Andrews. Thordike as a crusty old witch.

"Broadway Melody," (1940) Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell (11:00 p.m. Channel 4) — A Cole Porter score plus dancing. Astaire and Powell manage to offset the typical, corny backstage plot.

Red Warning

WASHINGTON, May 13—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R., N.Y., warned yesterday of the possibility of a communist takeover of Haiti similar to Cuba. "I think there is danger of it," Keating said. "There are some 30,000 Haitians in Cuba who go back and forth and there could be a method of getting communists back and forth that way. "I don't know of a direct communist effort toward Haiti, but I think it is something upon which we should be alert."

Woman Is First to Fly From California to Australia

BRISBANE, Australia, May 12—Mrs. Betty Miller, the Santa Monica, Calif., housewife who became the first woman to fly alone from California to Australia, rested here today in preparation for a return flight by commercial airliner.

Mrs. Miller was greeted last night by about 2,000 persons who rushed onto the runway when she landed in the final lap of her 7,000-mile solo flight. The crowd gathered around the twin-engine plane and sang "For she's a jolly good fellow."

She admitted to some "moments of anxiety" when the engine started to run rough after she had passed the point of no return on the final 700-mile flight from Noumea, on the island of New Caledonia.

"I radioed the air traffic control center to tell them of the trouble but the engine kept going," she said.

The aviatix had made an unscheduled three-hour stop at Noumea when she ran into heavy headwinds on the flight from Suva, Fiji.

"It was a long flight and I'm pretty tired but I'm happy and relieved to be here," Mrs. Miller said. "I wasn't really worried."

What does this mean to you?

The small wheat farmer is being discriminated against by the USDA by making it seem difficult to vote in the forthcoming referendum. Why is this being done? The Farm Bureau feels it is because Secretary Freeman KNOWS the small farmer's feelings against government supply management... and he knows the power of the small farmer's vote... It's just as big as the largest producer's. Therefore, not only has this registration obstacle been conceived, but a carefully contrived propaganda campaign has been put forth to intimidate the small farmer into thinking if he keeps quiet and doesn't vote he will be left alone. If the new law is passed. This is not true! In the low passes the 15 acre exemption will be terminated permanently and farmers will be permitted only to plant the average 1959-61 acreage. When he does, he will not be eligible for any price supports, diversion payments or wheat certificates. He must then sell his production at a feed wheat price, based upon the $1.30 support price. Therefore, he first takes a cut in acreage and then he is not eligible for the wheat certificates necessary to bring his price into line with the larger producers. Ask yourself, then, "How can I possibly help myself by not voting?" The answer, of course, is that you can't!

The only way you can insure your future as a small farmer is by voting "NO" on the referendum... but make sure you register by the 14th of May.

Arrangements are being made to assemble some of the leading folk entertainers and folklorists in the country, who will give concerts and participate in the workshop sessions and lecture-demonstrations. Featured will be blue guitar, country guitar, banjo, fiddle, dulcimer and autoharp.

Interested in song collecting and children's material. There will also be a special children's concert and two hootenannies (a folk singer's jam session).

The Olney Basque dancers from Boise will perform on the last day of the festival. This company of 48 performs the traditional Basque dances. The largest American settlement of Basques, who are originally from the Pyrenees mountains, is in the Boise valley and this troupe is comprised of first, second and third generation Basques from this area. The dancers are accompanied by the txistu, a flute-like instrument, and the tambour, a small drum—both of which are played by the same person simultaneously. A special workshop will be held for those interested in learning Basque songs.

In addition to the folk music activities, there will be a variety of sports available in the area including golf, tennis, fishing, riding and hiking into the nearby Idaho primitive area.

MARKETS AND FINANCE

Stocks

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—A shaky stock market steadied in the last half of the day today and found enough support to close slightly higher on a late rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which has been in roller coaster motion of the season, finished with its fourth gain in as many sessions.

The market had failed to show a definite trend all day. However, many investors today became as heavy as yesterday because the high speed-tickers were forced to run hot. Transactions on the market floor.

Brokers who were not dismayed over the market's faltering in the early part of the day noted that the list has a number of things working for it. Gaining favor for a return to normal business, the upward trend of non-ferrous metal prices, the near-record high stock interest and the fact that volume has tended to increase whenever prices move higher.

One source near the close of the day when the governor of the federal reserve board said that it is working to look for a return to a more normal business, the market received fundamental support from any resumption of inflationary trends.

Steel was weakened despite an abrupt jump in last week's production. The Chrysler corporation, which has been in a slump, was another leading motor firm.

Virginia, Carolina, chemical and other stocks were also affected. Chemical moved higher in their group but Hercules pulled back.

Some airlines performed well, apparently in response to a forecast by a leading advisory service that 1963 would be a better year for the industry.

Some metals gained a point or more in response to further price hikes in the industry.

Western Sugar and American Crystal moved higher reflecting another jump in the price of domestic raw sugar. U. S. Smelting performed well after agreeing to sell certain Canadian properties to Security-Ribbitt, thus settling pending litigation.

Xerox was an outstanding performer followed by a number of gains in Great Northern Paper, Amstar, Wire and Cable, Square D, Collins Radio, and others.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE—NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 1,000.10, up 1.10 points from 999.00. The volume of trading was 1,000,000 shares.

Among the gains were: General Electric, up 1/4; IBM, up 1/4; and American Telephone and Telegraph, up 1/4.

Q. I bought 50 shares of stock two years ago in a company which operates a major retail store chain, at $14 a share. It is now down to about $7. My regret is that I did not sell it when it was at $14.

A. I am sure that you are not alone in feeling that way. The stock market has been a roller coaster ride for the last few years. The price of your stock has fallen from $14 to $7, a loss of 50 percent. This is a significant loss, and it is understandable that you are regretting your investment.

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—The stock market was steady in the last half of the day today and found enough support to close slightly higher on a late rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which has been in roller coaster motion of the season, finished with its fourth gain in as many sessions.

The market had failed to show a definite trend all day. However, many investors today became as heavy as yesterday because the high speed-tickers were forced to run hot. Transactions on the market floor.

Brokers who were not dismayed over the market's faltering in the early part of the day noted that the list has a number of things working for it. Gaining favor for a return to normal business, the upward trend of non-ferrous metal prices, the near-record high stock interest and the fact that volume has tended to increase whenever prices move higher.

One source near the close of the day when the governor of the federal reserve board said that it is working to look for a return to a more normal business, the market received fundamental support from any resumption of inflationary trends.
